Motion in Opposition For Defendants Motion for Enlargement of Time.

Plaintiff herein above case, move this Honorable Court for an Opposition and denied, Defendants motion for enlargement of time, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(b). ~~In~~ response to Plaintiff motion for Summary judgment.

1.) On February 25, 2011 Norman W. Shelton, an inmate confined in the United States penitentiary, Lewisburg ("USP, Lewisburg"), Pennsylvania, filed the above captioned Bivens, action, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331. Plaintiff names as defendants five (5) employees of U.S.P. Lewisburg. Plaintiff raises claims of deliberate indifference to his safety and excessive use of force with regards to events surrounding an August 30, 2009 and nov, 26, 2009 assault and battery upon him by his cellies. In addition plaintiff generally states racial discrimination by staff and complains of various forms of mistreatment, including "corporal "" punishment", The use of restraints, harassment and being deprived of water, lights and sleep.

2.) Presently before this Honorable Court are defendants motion for enlargement of time, and for the following reason the defendants motion should be dismissed.

"The defendants have ignored the time frame in which to answer a motion filed by Plaintiff, and (nor) did the defendants comply with providing Plaintiff with the Interrogatories, discovery documentation. The defendant are abusing their request for enlargement of time in which this Honorable Court have been sufficient and its reply.

3.) This Honorable Court have exercise its discretion to the enlargement of time requested by the defendants lawyers who are abusing it to the point ~~where~~ where it is creating a substantial and unreasonable delay and these proceedings, in which to ensure that litigation is resolved without undue cost (or) delay. The unsupported facts and claims made by the defendants should be dismissed.

Conclusion,

The defendants have everything one could ever want at " " their finger tips. Time, money, Computers, secretaries, and researches and other litigators. Plaintiff moves this Honorable Court to dismiss defendants request for motion of enlargement of time to " " respond to Plaintiff motion for summary judgment! for their abuse to obstruct and delay. these proceedings.
